HISTORY OF DERRY'S SOLDIERS' MONUMENT

The Soldiers' Monument was erected in 1889 in honor of the 152¹ Derry men who left home to fight for the Union, and the twenty-four of them who never returned. The statue owes its existence to the vision and the generosity of Miss Emma Taylor, noted local philanthropist and long-time principal of Adams Female Academy. Upon her death in December of 1886, Miss Taylor left $1,000 to be used in erecting a memorial to the men of Derry who had fought in what was then called the "war of the rebellion." She specified that the monument was to be erected on the small town common in front of the First Parish Church. Her bequest was contingent upon the town's supplying the remaining requisite funds. In March of 1888, the town did so, voting to appropriate $2,000 to the effort and promptly appointing the board of selectman to serve as a monument committee. Several months and thirteen meetings later, having inspected and debated twenty-four different designs, the committee finally settled upon the design that had been submitted by Frederick & Field of Salem, Massachusetts.

Boston artist S.J. O'Kelly sculpted a bronze statue of a Union soldier to sit atop the monument's tall pedestal of blue Quincy granite. 19th century artisans mounted a bronze name-plaque on each face of the pedestal, and, on the front face, placed a relief-plaque of an eagle, laurel, and shield. Above the eagle, these words of dedication were inscribed in the granite:

IN HONOR OF THE MEN OF DERRY, N.H.
WHO FOUGHT FOR THE UNION
1861-1865.

In October of 1889, twenty-four years after the nation's bloodiest war had drawn to a close, this monument to Derry's soldiers was formally dedicated by the New Hampshire Department of the Grand Army of the Republic. In reporting on the dedication, The Derry News said of the town's new memorial: "The whole forms a very pleasing and shapely monument, creditable to the patriotic donors ... A gentleman from Boston, who is acquainted with the work, said the monument was the best for the amount of money expended that he had ever seen."

¹On this day of rededication, the name of George Thom is added to the monument, bringing the total number of those honored to 153.

DERRY WAR MEMORIALS RESTORATION COMMITTEE

In January of 1995, under the leadership of Ben Gurley, Derry's American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Disabled American Veterans joined ranks to preserve the memorials honoring the service of Derry's own. The veterans were assisted in their efforts by the Derry Heritage Commission. Thanks to the generous donations of the town's citizens and businesses, the committee restored McGregor Park's granite and bronze tablets in July of 1995. And in June of this year, with additional funding from the Town of Derry, the Soldiers' Monument also received the care that it needed. Funds are still required for perpetual maintenance. Donations are greatly appreciated, and may be sent to: Derry War Memorial Restoration Fund, c/o Fleet Bank, 20 East Broadway, Derry, NH, 03038.
